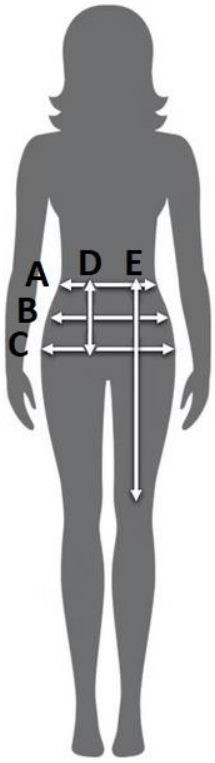
Ladies Kilt Measuring Guide



[Take measurements in 'inches' and 'to the skin' - not over thick clothing]

A: Waist

- Measure the horizontal circumference around the natural waist, where you want the waistband of your kilt to sit.
  NB: Take a good tight and comfortable fitting measurement, NEVER a 'slack' measurement. This is very important because the straps & buckles on a kilt can adjust to make a kilt bigger around the waist, but it cannot go smaller or tighter!

B: Hips

- Measure the horizontal circumference around the hips at the widest point.

C: Bottom

- Measure the horizontal circumference around the fullest part of the bottom.
  (i.e., The area of the bottom that sticks out the most).
  NB: Place three fingers inside the measuring tape, palm down, and flat against the body to avoid getting this measurement too tight.

D: Waist to Bottom

- Turn around, and on the back of the body, measure from where you want the top of your kilt waistband to sit, down over the bum-cheek, to the widest part of your bottom that sticks out the most.

E: Kilt Length

- Take this measurement from where you want the top of the kilt waistband to sit, to how far down the leg you want the kilt to reach.

IMPORTANT: Do not self-measure. Ask someone to take each measurement. To ensure accuracy, write measurements down as you go. DOUBLE CHECK all the measurements. As we cannot offer refunds or exchanges on made to measure items. Any ill-fitting garments in need of adjustment are the responsibility of each customer.
